"God is good to the Irish," was the motto inscribed over a pipe crossed on a bottle, which the witty Dion Boucicault invented for the coat of arms of the "Shaughraun Club." This interpretation of the purposes of Divine Providence would seem to be borne out by an article in the January Cosmopolitan treating of the Irish leaders of the nation, and showing that not only has England a Lord Wolseley, a Lord Roberts, and a Kitchener, but that Spain has a Duke of Tetuan, Russia a General Obuchovitch, and Hungary a Viscount Tassie, not to mention an endless array of other Irishmen who have reflected honor upon their native land.

Wonderful Discovery.

LUNSFORD, ALA., April 15, 1898. New Spencer Medicine Co.

Dear Sirs:—I have been troubled with liver and stomach complaint. I had no appetite and my general health was very bad. I took medicine from four different doctors and they failed to do me any good. I got no relief until I began to use your valuable Nubian Tea. I used about two dollars worth of it, and it did me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have gained thirty-five pounds in weight and my health is very good. I can sleep soundly and my appetite is excellent. I can recommend Planter's Nubian Tea to the world as being a God-send to any community. Any one who doubts this statement can write Ocas Barza. Sold by St. Bernard Drug Store.

The Olympia's Chaplain Bested

Sharkey.

Toledo telegram to Chicago Chronicle. Father Rainey, chaplain of the United States steamship Olympia, with Dewey, figures in a story which comes from Pontiac, Mich., the home of his sisters. It is one of Tom Sharkey's boasts that he suffered a fistic defeat at the hands of Father Rainey, and of which he is proud.

Sharkey was a sailor on the Olympia, and one day, while enjoying a friendly bout with a companion, Father Rainey appeared and the fight was called off. "Don't stop on my account," said Father Rainey, "I enjoy that kind of sport, and I guess, Tom, you will have to put the gloves on with me some day."

A few days later "time" was called for the two in the mess-room. When they put up their hands there was a look of sadness on the sailor's face as he made a little punch at the chaplain's breast and when he was countered on the nose, Tom laughed. The sympathetic look then vanished.

Sharkey made another jab, which was neatly stopped, and a punch on the ear put him on his mettle. Tom lunged, struck right and left, tried all the tactics he had used on his mates, but to no effect. Father Rainey was too clever. He would meet the sailor's rushes with a stinging punch on the nose or short ribs, until when time was called, Sharkey acknowledged his defeat.

Like Jesse James.

Thos. J. Hunt, who lives at Scottsville, Ky., bore such a striking resemblance to the notorious bandit Jesse James that he was four times arrested for that crime. Once for stage robbery near Mammoth Cave, and on this charge he served eighteen months in jail and was convicted but secured a new trial and postponement. In the meantime Jesse James was killed and a watch and jewels that were taken in the Mammoth Cave robbery were found in his possession. This cleared Hunt.

Add to their great drawing power the famous singer and choir leader Excell and there is a combination that would draw anywhere.

Miss Jones, daughter of the evangelist and a talented musician will accompany her father. The railroads will probably make a reduced rate.

It has been demonstrated repeatedly in every state in the Union and in many foreign countries that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a certain preventive and cure for croup. It has become the universal remedy for that disease. M. V. Fisher of Liberty, W. Va., only repeats what has been said around the globe when he writes: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in my family for several years and always with perfect success. We believe that it is not only the best cough remedy, but it is a sure cure for croup. It has saved the lives of our children a number of times." This remedy is for sale by St. Bernard Drugstore, Earlington, B. F. Robinson, Mortons Gap, Geo. King, St. Charles.

When Baron Curzon, viceroy of India, was under-secretary for the colonies, he was once making a long and elaborate speech in parliament against a measure urged regarding India. It was certain to result in a loss to the government of many lakhs of rupees. He repeated his emphasis: "Consider; not pounds nor guineas, but lakhs of rupees!"

A quiet voice on the opposition benches asked: "Exactly how much is a lac of rupees?" Mr. Curzon opened his mouth, stammered, grew red, and then said: "I really don't know!" The house laughed, and in that laugh he lost his cause.—Exchange.

BATTLESHIP KENTUCKY

Will Be Completed and Ready for Service About July 1.

Washington, Jan. 16.—A New-Port News special says that the work on the battleship Kentucky has reached an advanced stage. The time for the delivery of the Kentucky was January 2. Had nothing interfered with the plans of the builders this would have been done, but there were delays caused by the Government itself, which found it necessary to make changes in the plans and decrease the working force in order to put the labor on ships which needed but slight alteration to prepare them for the late war. Due to this, the company has nearly a year in which to complete the ship but it is fully expected it will be ready by July 1.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON IV, FIRST QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, JAN. 22.

Text of the Lesson, John III, 1-16. Memory Verses, 14-16—Golden Text, John III, 16—Commentary Prepared by the Rev. D. M. STEARNS.

1. "Now there was a man" (R. V.). In verses 11, 22, 23, of chapter 3, we read that the disciples believed and many believed, but then we read that Jesus did not commit Himself unto (believe in) men, for He knew what was in man. Then we have Him dealing with this man, a ruler of the Jews, and revealing Nicodemus to himself, that he might know God, for this is greater than riches or wisdom or might (Jer. ix, 23, 24).

2. Nicodemus knew that Jesus was at least sent of God and that God was with him, and his soul was hungering for more of God, and he felt that Jesus had power to help him, yet, being a ruler and Jesus being evidently a very humble person, not having been taught in any of the schools, nor having, like Saul, been brought up at the feet of Gamaliel or any great teacher of the day, he seems to think it wise not to come at first to Him too publicly.

3. Jesus passes by the seeming compliment and, recognizing the longing in the heart of Nicodemus, tells him briefly the only way to see the kingdom for which he longs. To be born of God (1-13) or from above (duarig) is the only way. A man cannot enter the kingdom of God by his own wisdom nor royal lineage nor position among men can entitle any one to see or enter the kingdom of God. It must be a work of God in the heart—nothing less than the receiving of the Son of God (chapter 1, 13).

4. Nicodemus, though very religious and a ruler of the Jews, was only a natural man and understood not spiritual things. He could only think of a natural birth.

5. A little more fully Jesus now states it, saying that to be born of God means to be born of water and of the Spirit. By calling up three witnesses—Peter, James and Paul—and by comparing 1 Pet. i, 23; Jas. i, 18; Eph. v, 26; John vi, 65, we learn that water suggests the Word of God, by which the Spirit always works.

6. The flesh is the natural man, the man not subject to nor controlled by God. He may be intellectual, educated, talented, wealthy, a good citizen, moral, philanthropic and in every way all that could be desired as a loving father, son or brother, yet if only that never see the kingdom of God. He that hath the Son hath life, but he that hath not the Son of God hath not life, whatever else he may have (1 John v, 12).

7. "Ye must be born again." There is much teaching nowadays to the effect that there is a spark of the divine nature in every one and that it only needs to be developed, but such is not the teaching of the Word of God, which says that the carnal or natural mind is enemy against God, for it is not subject to the law of God, neither, indeed, can be (Rom. vii, 7).

8. We can feel the wind as it blows upon us, but cannot tell whence it came nor whither it goeth. The Holy Spirit, however, works in the darkness of the heart, the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters, and God spoke, and there was light. So God, by His Word and Spirit, shines in hearts and gives the knowledge of Himself, causing life and fruitfulness where all before was waste and void (1 Cor. iv, 6, 7).

9. "How can these things be?" The blind was groping for the light and but very dimly perceived. These spiritual things, so simple to the Spirit, were too much for the natural man, even though he be a ruler. I have wondered if one could see the vision of the world as it is, like the book of Daniel and would find have done with it is that there, as perhaps nowhere else, is shown the utter impotence of such wisdom to deal with the things of God.

10. A master of Israel should know something of these things, for in Ezek. xxxi, 26, 27, it was said that a heart shall I give you and a new spirit will I put within you. I will put My Spirit within you and cause you to walk in My statutes. Gabriel was sent from heaven to cause Daniel to know, but here is a greater than Gabriel, and yet Nicodemus does not understand.

11. This is the third verily, yet of our lesson. Only in this gospel do we find the double verily or amen or in truth, and He who uses it is Himself speaking. He knew all things and all men, even their unthought imaginations. He said through Jeremiah: "I, the Lord, search the heart; I, the Lord, try the reins." There are celestial and terrestrial things as well as bodies, but the glory of the one differs greatly from that of the other (1 Cor. xv, 40). The kingdom, although not of this world, is to be set upon this earth and will include the whole world (John xvii, 36; Dan. vii, 27; Hab. i, 14), but there is a New Jerusalem to come down out of heaven from God, in the light of which the nations of the earth are to walk.

12. What wondrous sayings are here! While He was on earth He is in heaven; He came down from heaven, and does He say that as man He had made up to heaven? If so, we must believe it. But what about John xiii, 17, "I am not yet ascended to my Father"? That was in His resurrection body.

13. Our Lord Jesus never made light of or in any way discounted any record in the Scriptures, but spoke of them as real. Here He refers to the incident of Num. xxi, 6-9, where the people, dying from the bite of fiery serpents, were to look upon a brazen serpent, which Moses, at God's command, lifted up upon a pole high enough for all to see, and when any dying one beheld the serpent of brass he lived.

14. The Israelites bitten were as good as dead unless they looked. They were utterly helpless. Nicodemus was as helpless to save himself as a bitten Israelite, so are we. When a bitten and dying one looked where he was told, he saw the resemblance of that which was causing his suffering and probable death, but it was fastened to a pole and thus in the place of death to itself.

15. In Jesus Christ on the cross for our sins we see the love of God as it was seen elsewhere. We see the fulfillment of Jer. li, 21; Ps. xlii; Isa. liii, and every other Scripture concerning His suffering and death. We are not asked to understand it nor to grasp its full significance, for that would be impossible, but, like the bitten Israelite, we are asked to behold Him and believe He is for me. Then we are assured that through Him we have life and can never perish. All who are helpless and turn to Him and simply receive Him are born of God. It is evident from chapter xix, 30, that Nicodemus received Him, and the secret disciple became the bold confessor.

Divine Truth.

Divine truth, like divine love, is of God—infinite, eternal, unchangeable, indestructible, as it was in the beginning, is now and ever shall be, world without end.—Rev. Dr. Charles Cuthbert Hall.

We read there is nothing concerning the theological outlook for those alarmed and irritated defenders of the ancient order. The reconstruction of theology on the basis of revised and critical views of the Scriptures is bound to go on. The only sane thing for those who feel that faith is endangered thereby to do is to engage with equal earnestness investigation by history and heresy trials as is important as it is irrational. The sound policy is to meet light with more light.—Universalist Leader.

A New York company of manufacturing chemists, the Rippe Chemical Company, place upon the market about five years ago a medicinal tablet which had been compounded of compressed powdered preparations of certain medicinal drugs which had been ascertained to be of more general use among invalids than any other for the cure or alleviation of such ailments common to man as have their origin in an impaired digestion or weak capacity for assimilating food, absorbing nutriment and eliminating waste. The cause of this ailment under this head is said to include pretty nearly every disease for which the physician is called upon to prescribe, in preparing the tablet remedy, for the acceptance of the American people the company laid down the principle that everything entering into the composition of the tablet should be of the highest grade and protected as to retain the qualities intact and unimpaired through any extended lapse of time in any climate. Only the choicest drugs, and secondly, the best methods of tablet-making, should be used in the preparation of these tablets. The tablets should be of a size and shape that they could be taken with ease and without any special preparation. LESSON IV, FIRST QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, JAN. 22.

Text of the Lesson, John III, 1-16. Memory Verses, 14-16—Golden Text, John III, 16—Commentary Prepared by the Rev. D. M. STEARNS.

1. "Now there was a man" (R. V.). In verses 11, 22, 23, of chapter 3, we read that the disciples believed and many believed, but then we read that Jesus did not commit Himself unto (believe in) men, for He knew what was in man. Then we have Him dealing with this man, a ruler of the Jews, and revealing Nicodemus to himself, that he might know God, for this is greater than riches or wisdom or might (Jer. ix, 23, 24).

2. Nicodemus knew that Jesus was at least sent of God and that God was with him, and his soul was hungering for more of God, and he felt that Jesus had power to help him, yet, being a ruler and Jesus being evidently a very humble person, not having been taught in any of the schools, nor having, like Saul, been brought up at the feet of Gamaliel or any great teacher of the day, he seems to think it wise not to come at first to Him too publicly.

3. Jesus passes by the seeming compliment and, recognizing the longing in the heart of Nicodemus, tells him briefly the only way to see the kingdom for which he longs. To be born of God (1-13) or from above (duarig) is the only way. A man cannot enter the kingdom of God by his own wisdom nor royal lineage nor position among men can entitle any one to see or enter the kingdom of God. It must be a work of God in the heart—nothing less than the receiving of the Son of God (chapter 1, 13).

4. Nicodemus, though very religious and a ruler of the Jews, was only a natural man and understood not spiritual things. He could only think of a natural birth.

5. A little more fully Jesus now states it, saying that to be born of God means to be born of water and of the Spirit. By calling up three witnesses—Peter, James and Paul—and by comparing 1 Pet. i, 23; Jas. i, 18; Eph. v, 26; John vi, 65, we learn that water suggests the Word of God, by which the Spirit always works.

6. The flesh is the natural man, the man not subject to nor controlled by God. He may be intellectual, educated, talented, wealthy, a good citizen, moral, philanthropic and in every way all that could be desired as a loving father, son or brother, yet if only that never see the kingdom of God. He that hath the Son hath life, but he that hath not the Son of God hath not life, whatever else he may have (1 John v, 12).

7. "Ye must be born again." There is much teaching nowadays to the effect that there is a spark of the divine nature in every one and that it only needs to be developed, but such is not the teaching of the Word of God, which says that the carnal or natural mind is enemy against God, for it is not subject to the law of God, neither, indeed, can be (Rom. vii, 7).

8. We can feel the wind as it blows upon us, but cannot tell whence it came nor whither it goeth. The Holy Spirit, however, works in the darkness of the heart, the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters, and God spoke, and there was light. So God, by His Word and Spirit, shines in hearts and gives the knowledge of Himself, causing life and fruitfulness where all before was waste and void (1 Cor. iv, 6, 7).

9. "How can these things be?" The blind was groping for the light and but very dimly perceived. These spiritual things, so simple to the Spirit, were too much for the natural man, even though he be a ruler. I have wondered if one could see the vision of the world as it is, like the book of Daniel and would find have done with it is that there, as perhaps nowhere else, is shown the utter impotence of such wisdom to deal with the things of God.

10. A master of Israel should know something of these things, for in Ezek. xxxi, 26, 27, it was said that a heart shall I give you and a new spirit will I put within you. I will put My Spirit within you and cause you to walk in My statutes. Gabriel was sent from heaven to cause Daniel to know, but here is a greater than Gabriel, and yet Nicodemus does not understand.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 22.—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle, Toric—Where am I going?—Ps. cxxxviii.

The One Hundred and Nineteenth Psalm is the longest and most elaborate of all the psalms. It is an alphabetical psalm, having a stanza composed of eight verses for each of the 22 letters of the Hebrew alphabet. Each verse consists of two numbers only, each of which begins with the same letter of the alphabet. The subject of the psalm is the law of God, and it is practically an expansion of a Nineteenth Psalm. The author is unknown.

The topic suggests the idea that life is a journey, a going either toward God or from God. The psalmist in the topical reference declares that he is going toward God, directed by His law and testimonies. If we want to travel in the same direction, the word of God is our only true guide. "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path." The only way to go God's way is to follow His law. What we might call the steps in this way are pointed out in the topical reference.

1. The first step is consideration and decision to go God's way, as pointed out by His law (verse 57). "I have said that I will keep Thy words." This decision should be made before we come to consideration of the question. The psalmist has doubtless earnestly considered the matter as to which is the better way to go, with the law of God or against it, and has wisely concluded that he will keep God's word. This is the first step toward traveling with God. We must decide to do so, and after due consideration who can fail to come to the same conclusion? Personal interest, duty, destiny, demand, obedience to God's law, if men considered the matter more thoroughly and earnestly, would decide to go God's way. Thoughtlessness is largely the cause of godlessness. If we thought more upon our ways, we would more readily turn our feet unto God's testimonies.

2. The second step is the study of God's law. The law of God must be studied and known to be practiced. If we were blind, no light could guide us. Ignorance is the worst enemy we have. Knowledge of God's law to make it of value to us. We should study it prayerfully, systematically, earnestly and constantly. Then we are in position to follow the direction it points us.

3. The third step is the practice of God's law. "I thought on my ways and turned my feet unto Thy testimonies." I made haste and delayed not to keep Thy commandments." Consideration, decision and study are valueless without action, without practice. The prodigal son thought, decided and acted. He said, "I will arise and go to my father, and he also 'arose and went.' Practice alone will make our decisions effective.

4. The fourth characteristic of one traveling God's way is thanksgiving and association with those of the same manner of life. "At midnight I will arise and give thanks to Thee because of Thy righteous judgments." I am the companion of all them that fear Thee and of them that keep Thy precepts" (verses 62, 63). Child of God, going God's way, go and do thou likewise.

5. Bible Readings—Gen. v, 24; vi, 8; vii, 1; 11; 12; 13; 14; 15; 16; 17; 18; 19; 20; 21; 22; 23; 24; 25; 26; 27; 28; 29; 30; 31; 32; 33; 34; 35; 36; 37; 38; 39; 40; 41; 42; 43; 44; 45; 46; 47; 48; 49; 50; 51; 52; 53; 54; 55; 56; 57; 58; 59; 60; 61; 62; 63; 64; 65; 66; 67; 68; 69; 70; 71; 72; 73; 74; 75; 76; 77; 78; 79; 80; 81; 82; 83; 84; 85; 86; 87; 88; 89; 90; 91; 92; 93; 94; 95; 96; 97; 98; 99; 100.

An Heir to Thousands.

Mr. Speck, of Evansville, father of Phil Speck, the popular drummer, died recently without disclosing to any one the value of his estate. Before he died, however, he gave to Phil the keys to his safe with instructions as to division of its contents. When the safe was opened it was found to contain $150,000 in gold. Mr. Speck had about $400 deposited in bank to defray his funeral expenses—but for the rest he had been his own banker for years. The gold was packed away in tobacco sacks. This story was told here by a friend of Phil's and is said to have been substantiated by himself.
